Peru At a Glance
Mashed potatoes, French fries and chips – all of your favorite snacks owe their origin to Peru. This is where the humble potato was first domesticated. When the Spanish conquistadors conquered the Inca Empire, the first thing they exported to Europe was the potato, where it was quickly adopted as a cheap, easy to grow food crop.

Peru has three official languages—Spanish, Quechua and Aymara. Both Quechua and Aymara were derived from ancient Incan languages. Today, roughly 84% of the population speaks Spanish, 13% speaks Quechua, while just 1.7% speaks Aymara.

Guinea Pigs may be adorable, docile pets in the US, but in Peru, they are an important source of food and feature heavily in Peruvian folklore. Don’t be surprised if you see Guinea Pig meat (called cuy locally) on sale in Peruvian restaurants!
History Meets Adventure: Discovering Machu Picchu

Hiram Bingham, a leader of a Yale University expedition, made Machu Picchu known to the world while on a search for another famed Incan city. One day, a local told him of older, more important Incan ruins, and, thus, Bingham commenced the steep climb covered with dense jungle vegetation. Once at the top of the slope, a young child from a village nearby took him to an old city wrapped in tropical flora. That day, July 24, 1911, Bingham wrote in his journal, “...would anyone believe what I have found?”.

Did you know?

Machu Picchu is a Quechua word meaning “older peak”. Its younger counterpart, Huayna Picchu, means “smaller peak”.
Full Itinerary

How do I know which meals are included?

Great question! Refer to the legend below when viewing each day of the itinerary:

B = Breakfast
L = Lunch

Day 1

Arrival in Cusco & Potential Visit of Awanacancha

Upon arrival, your guide will greet you at the airport with the Gondwana sign, and transfer you to your hotel in the Sacred Valley of the Incas. Depending on the time of arrival we’ll head to Awanacancha, a llama petting farm where we encounter llamas, alpacas, vicuñas and guanacos. Besides learning about these animals, we’ll also learn about traditional weaving methods. Lunch is included and will be at Casa Hacienda Huayoccari. Time and energy permitting, we will spend some time in the market of Pisaq.

Day 2

Visit to Maras Salt Flats and Moray Ruins

After breakfast we will walk between 2 to 4 hours in front of the Andes Mountains and then visit the Maras salt flats: a place where ancient technology is still used for the extraction of salt from the mountain. Next, we will visit the Moray ruins, which used to be an agricultural experimental center for the Incas. Lunch is included and will consist of a lovely picnic in front of the Andes Mountains. Our chef will bring fresh food from Cusco.

Day 3

Full Day visit to Ollantaytambo Ruins + the Andean Community of Patacancha

We’ll begin the day with a visit the agricultural terraces and ruins of Pachacuti’s royal estate at Ollantaytambo. Then we’ll drive to the village of Patacancha. Tucked in the mountains, this town stays cold because of the nearby Andes Glacier. There, we will visit a local school and take an optional hike through a world that is nearly unchanged since its Incan settlement. Lunch will be a lovely gourmet picnic, provided by our chef, who will bring fresh food from Cusco.
Train ride to Machu Picchu + Afternoon Visit to the Ruins

We will take a Vistadome Train through the countryside to the town of Machu Picchu. We will have lunch at Inkaterra Hotel, and then head to the ruins of Machu Picchu for an afternoon visit (when it is the most quiet). Dinner will be at the award-winning, luxurious Inkaterra Hotel.

Optional hike to Machu Picchu Mountain or visit to the Gardens at the Hotel

We invite you to an optional second visit to the Machu Picchu ruins. This hike brings us to the summit of Machu Picchu Mountain, which provides a vista above the ruins. As an alternative, we can arrange a visit to the beautiful gardens at the hotel. Lunch will be at the Indio Feliz Restaurant. In the afternoon we will return to Cusco via the Vistadome Train.

“Gondwana brings more joy, fun, smile, laugh and awareness to our travel experience! One of my favorite ways to see the world!”

– Edmond Tsang
City tour of Cusco

In the morning we will visit Sacsayhuaman, a nearly 1,000 year-old citadel. With its Cyclopean Inca construction and mind-blowing views of Cusco City, it’s a great way to have one foot in the past and one in the present. Next, we will visit Coricancha: the Temple of the Sun. In the afternoon, Experience the San Pedro Market in the afternoon, where you come face to face with the essence of local life. Lastly, we will explore Cusco Cathedral: a jewel bursting with exquisite local art and tradition.

“If you want to broaden your horizons and go to exotic places all while feeling taken care of and in good hands, I recommend Gondwana Ecotours.”

—Jena Frederick

Transfer to the Airport of Cusco

We will take you to the Airport of Cusco for your scheduled flight to Lima and connections and wish you farewell!
Accommodations
Hotel Sol y Luna

Hotel Sol y Luna is a charming hotel surrounded by beautiful gardens in Peru’s magical Sacred Valley of the Incas. The hotel is located near spectacular Inca ruins and has been built in the local rustic style reflecting the spirit of the Andes.

Inkaterra: Machu Picchu Pueblo Hotel

Inkaterra’s Machu Picchu lodge, nestled in the cloud forest below the Incan ruins, is a welcoming, sustainability-focused hotel a short bus ride from the famed archaeological site. The 85 whitewashed, red-roofed cottages are scattered around 12 lush acres, connected by stone pathways, and set among waterfalls, hummingbirds, and an orchid garden with 372 different native species.

Inkaterra: La Cazona Cusco Hotel

Inkaterra La Cazona is a colonial manor house —perhaps the first Spanish construction in Cusco— centrally located on an Incan settlement near Cusco’s present-day main square, later occupied by the conquistadores of Peru and their descendants. Eleven suites surround a sumptuous courtyard, where the patina of time is tastefully preserved. Contemporary amenities create the ambience of comfort and exclusivity enjoyed by residents in centuries past.
Sonesta Posadas del Inca Yucay

Sonesta Posadas del Inca Yucay offers guests a unique experience in the heart of the Sacred Valley. Complete with laundry service and a comfortable bed, this hotel will surely steal your heart. Comfortable work stations make checking your email accessible and cozy a restaurant and bar make it the perfect way to unwind after a day of hiking!

El MaPi by Inkaterra

Inkaterra has pioneered eco-development in Peru since 1975, and is currently renowned as a world leader in sustainable development. To underscore cultural and natural virtues, the brand works under a holistic approach that generates added value in rural areas: it encourages scientific research, whilst contributing to biodiversity conservation, education and the economic growth of local communities. The cozy rooms and trendy restaurant and bar area will give you a chance to relax after a full day of exploring Machu Picchu.

Costa del Sol Ramada Cusco

Costa del Sol Ramada Cusco is the perfect place to spend your last days in Peru. Located in a colonial mansion considered part of the cultural heritage of the city of Cusco. The building dates from the seventeenth century, when the Marquis de Picoaga came to town and built this new house using stone and murals. This 4-star hotel has 90 rooms with amenities for a pleasant, relaxing and unforgettable stay. With a combined architecture between colonial and contemporary, with stone arches, beautiful courtyard with fountain and original murals.
Your Guide

When not guiding in Cusco, Juan Carlos leads trips throughout the Latin America and Asia.

What’s the difference between a Guide and Gondwana Trip Leader?
A Guide is your window into the destination. Always a local, your guide gives insight to the culture, region, and ecosystems. We bring a Gondwana trip leader in addition to a guide for groups of six or more to retain the personal attention that we are known for.
Getting There and Back

When should I arrive in Cusco?

You should arrive at Cusco International Airport (Alejandro Velasco Astete International Airport) as early as possible, ideally taking the early morning flight from Lima.

What do I need to do to prepare for my arrival and journey?

Send us your flight itinerary and your guide, Juan Carlos, will be waiting for you at the airport with a sign with your name on it or the Gondwana Ecotours logo.

What if I want to explore Cusco before my journey with Gondwana Ecotours?

If you decide to come to Cusco before the ecotour starts, you will need to arrange transportation to our lodging on the first day of the ecotour, but we can provide assistance upon request.

What should I do in preparation for my departure?

Nothing! At the end of our journey, we will accommodate and transport you back to the Cusco International Airport (Alejandro Velasco Astete International Airport) any time on the last day of your ecotour.

What if I want to stay longer in Cusco or Peru?

For those of you who will be staying longer, feel free to ask us for help! An extension option to tour the famous Amazon Rainforest and Galapagos Islands is available; if you are interested please ask us for more details.

Is it easy to find a direct flight to Peru?

Yes! New York (Newark), Atlanta, Miami, Houston, Los Angeles, Mexico and Toronto have direct flights to Lima.
Transfer to the Airport of Cusco

We will take you to the Airport of Cusco for your scheduled flight to Lima and connections and wish you farewell!
